Special Education & ADHD Co-Parenting Addendum

A short, sign-able addendum designed to attach to your existing parenting plan or commitment agreement. It locks in identical rules across both homes for the pieces of co-parenting that most affect a child with an IEP, an ADHD medication routine, or an ARD process.

Fill this in AFTER completing the 25-item Educational Alignment Assessment. The parts you scored lowest are exactly the parts to prioritise here.

> This document is a planning tool between parents. It is not a court order or a binding legal agreement. If it is intended to modify a court order, have it reviewed by qualified family-law counsel and, when required, approved by the court.

1. IEP & ARD Management

We agree to the following operating rules for our child's IEP:

- ☐ Both parents receive the current IEP document within 24 hours of any revision.
- ☐ Both parents are notified of ARD meetings at least 10 school days in advance.
- ☐ Whenever practical, both parents attend ARD meetings together (or by video / phone) and coordinate positions in advance.
- ☐ If we disagree with a school recommendation, we discuss it BEFORE the ARD, not during.
- ☐ We share every teacher, therapist, and diagnostician email within 48 hours.
- ☐ We use a single shared digital folder (Google Drive / Dropbox / co-parenting app) for all IEP paperwork.

Escalation for disagreements

If we cannot agree on an IEP / ARD position, we will:

- ☐ Consult the child's teacher(s) and the school counsellor first.
- ☐ Consult a private educational diagnostician or Special-Ed advocate.
- ☐ Take the disagreement to mediation before requesting a formal ARD dispute review.

2. Accommodations Held in Both Homes

Classroom accommodations only work if they extend into homework, downtime, and daily life. We agree to hold the following identically:

- ☐ Extra time on written tasks
- ☐ Visual schedules and checklists
- ☐ Reduced-distraction workspace at homework time
- ☐ Frequent movement / sensory breaks
- ☐ Written instructions given step-by-step
- ☐ Noise-cancelling headphones or fidget tools available
- ☐ Consistent bedtime and wake-time on school nights
- ☐ Screen-time / device limits during school week
- ☐ Other accommodation

3. ADHD Medication Coordination

Medication decisions are made by the prescribing clinician, not by either parent unilaterally. This section records how we coordinate what the clinician has already prescribed, not whether to prescribe.

Refill responsibility

- ☐ Parent 1 fills the prescription each month.
- ☐ Parent 2 fills the prescription each month.
- ☐ We alternate months; the parent whose fill is due notifies the other 5 days before pickup.
- ☐ Any missed or delayed dose is reported to the other parent within 12 hours.

Cross-home reporting rules

- ☐ Side effects or behaviour changes are reported between us BEFORE we report them to the doctor, so we present a unified observation.
- ☐ We never adjust the dose without the prescriber's written confirmation to both parents.

4. Transitions & Executive-Function Support

Abrupt transitions can trigger ADHD dysregulation. We agree to the following transition rules for exchanges and school-to-home shifts:

- ☐ A 24-hour reminder is sent before any exchange or schedule change.
- ☐ Backpack, medication, and specialised gear travel with the child at every exchange - checked visually by BOTH parents.
- ☐ Exchanges are calm and short - disputes are discussed in writing later, never in front of the child.
- ☐ If our child is dysregulated at pickup, we take 10 minutes to co-regulate before demanding compliance or homework.

Gear that must travel between homes

- ☐ Homework binder / school folder
- ☐ Noise-cancelling headphones
- ☐ Preferred stuffed / comfort object
- ☐ Fidgets, chewelry, sensory tools
- ☐ Weekly medication tray or pillbox
- ☐ IEP-linked accommodations kit
