Your Family Report

Prepared for A. Sample Parent · Includes: Co-Parenting Assessment, Special Needs Assessment, Family Violence & Communication Safety

Your Family Violence & Communication Safety assessment placed your co-parenting communication at Level 3 - Assisted Problem-Solving. Your Co-Parenting Assessment (10 sections) currently reflects Building Progress. Your Special Needs Assessment (10 principles) currently reflects Building Progress.

Communication Safety

Level 3: Assisted Problem-Solving

Move to a written, structured channel for most decisions.

Direct conversation is currently possible but written channels reduce friction and keep decisions traceable.

Recommendations

- Use a shared parenting app for all non-emergency communication.
- Use BIFF-style messages (Brief, Informative, Friendly, Firm).
- Schedule a weekly 10-minute child-focused check-in.
- Loop a Parenting Facilitator or mediator in when decisions stall.

Co-Parenting Assessment

Overall: Building Progress

You have real strengths to build on, alongside a handful of areas that would benefit from focused attention.

Strengths

- Educational Needs

Ensure both parents actively support educational success.

- Medical & Healthcare Needs

Coordinate healthcare across both homes.

- Daily Routines & Home Consistency

Create predictable environments that help the child thrive.

Priority focus

- Communication & Information Sharing (Needs Improvement)

First step: Move all non-emergency communication to a written, timestamped channel.

- Pick-Up, Drop-Off & Transitions (Fair)

First step: Move exchanges to a neutral, low-stimulation location.

Special Needs Assessment

Overall: Building Progress

You have real strengths across the 10 special-needs principles, with a few priority principles to sharpen.

Strengths

- Understand & Share Your Child's Diagnosis and Needs

Build shared knowledge of the diagnosis and its daily impact.

- Practice Compassion and Patience

Approach disagreements with empathy; keep the child at the center.

Priority focus

- Maintain Open, Child-Focused Communication (Needs Improvement)

First step: Move all non-emergency communication to a written, timestamped channel.

- Manage Transitions Smoothly (Fair)

First step: Use transition warnings and a visual schedule 24 hours before each exchange.

Combined next steps

- [Safety] Use a shared parenting app for all non-emergency communication.
- [Safety] Use BIFF-style messages (Brief, Informative, Friendly, Firm).
- [Safety] Schedule a weekly 10-minute child-focused check-in.
- [Safety] Loop a Parenting Facilitator or mediator in when decisions stall.
- [Co-Parenting] Set a weekly 10-minute child-focused check-in.
- [Special Needs] Attend the next IEP/504 meeting together.
- [Co-Parenting] Introduce a shared parenting app.

This Family Report is an educational reflection tool from SA CoParents. It is not a diagnosis, custody evaluation, or legal advice. Findings are based on the parent's own self-assessment answers. Safety findings do not include identifying question-level detail; they only reflect the overall communication pathway level.